

September Works of Art

Fifteen identical nested bowls inside of one large bowl. The nested bowls were made of Silver Maple, Osage Orange, Curly Maple, Walnut, Mesquite, Sycamore, and Honey Locust. If you missed the last meeting, you missed seeing this.

Another one you missed was this labor of love by Lyndal Anthony made from Bubinga, Rosewood, and Cocobolo.

David Murray Hard at Work

Ron and your newsletter editor were present while David selected items for the Airport display. He admitted he certainly had a hard time picking out the items as there were so many beautiful pieces submitted. Thanks to all who submitted and to all who helped with this project.

September Critique Table

Linda Beckman shared the critique honors with Anne Sinner for the September meeting. There was a tremendous variety of items brought for the critique and number so large that all are not able to be included this month in this section.

From the QCWT President

This has got to be one of the best Octobers on record weather wise. Great weather to be harvesting wood for the winter turnings. The heat will be on in the shops real soon.

After the first of the year, the DeSoto building will be open on Mondays again. This will be an open shop with all of the lathes available for turning, and also the library will be available. Stay tuned for more details.

Eighteen months ago the Quad City Arts asked the QCW to be the featured arts at the QC Airport Gallery. It seemed like a long time ago, but it is here. We had 130 pieces submitted. David Murray, professor of art at Black Hawk College was the jurist. He picked 30 pieces for exhibit and 16 alternate pieces for the November and December showing at the airport.

When the exhibit is opened, I hope all members will go to see the display. Take your family and friends too. They will be impressed! The airport seems like a hassle to get in and out of, but it is not. There is one hour free parking. You have one hour to look over the display of turnings.

We will be at Builders World October 29th and 30th demoing our skills. Come on out and turn a little and talk woodturning with fellow QCW members. It will also be a chance to educate the public on what we do..

Betty Scarpino will be here Saturday, January 22. Put this on your calendar. She is a very good turner and very personable. You will certainly enjoy your day.

Jerry Sargent, President, QCWT

Betty Scarpino

Betty Scarpino is an Indianapolis-based turner with a national following. She has been a professional woodworker, specializing in turning and sculpture, since 1982. Her work is in numerous museum collections, including those of the Renwick Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, and the Yale University Art Gallery. She exhibits nationally and has been written about in publications from Fine Woodworking magazine to "Wood Art Today," by Dona Meilach (Schiffer Publishing, 2003). Betty also edits a turning column for Woodworker's Journal and is a highly experienced instructor.
